Cool Customers are Chilling Out

(Published in the Evening Gazette, 19th October 2004)

A Teesside company has made its movie debut.

The Big Fridge Company, of Thornaby, which supplies mobile refrigeration and freezer units, has expanded its services from domestic to commercial.

And it has notched up a host of prestige jobs.

One of their units was used at the wedding of Blue Peter presenter Matt Baker and another was on location with the crew of the movie Wimbledon in London.

Other commercial contracts have been at the Great Yorkshire Show, Coworth Polo Centre at Ascot and Mill Hill Country Club in London.

The company is run by directors Andrew Houston, James White and Nick Appleyard.

Mr Appleyard said: "We always knew ever tightening health and safety legislation there was a gap in the market for on site mobile refrigeration at both planned events and in emergency situations."

The firm has recruited one member of staff, Richard Moon from Stockton, who works with the directors on logistics and deliveries of the units.
